Winter 2021

Winter Weather Increases Work Injuries

Winter is coming...to Pennsylvania. Work injuries occur year-round, but winter weather increases work injuries in Pennsylvania due to sleet, ice and snow. Winter hazards that increase work injuries include:

- Slip and Falls
- Poor Roads
- Cold Stress
- Snow Removal
- Falling Debris

According to the US Bureau of Labor Statistics, there are over 20,000 winter work injuries every year.

Some common professions that experience more winter work injuries than usual are:

Construction Workers | Emergency Responders
Sanitation Workers | Utility Workers | Truck Drivers

If you are hurt while working due to winter weather you will want to call an experienced workers' compensation attorney right away to review your case to make sure you are receiving all the compensation you deserve. Turn to our lawyers at Marzzacco, Niven & Associates to fight for you this holiday season.
