Exactech Recalls Knee and Ankle Replacement Parts

Exactech has issued a recall of polyethylene plastic inserts used in knee and ankle replacements because the plastic could wear prematurely, leading to implant failure requiring revision surgery.

The recalled inserts fit between the metal components in the knee and ankle replacements to cushion the joints. Exactech issued the recall because the insert packaging did not adequately protect the inserts from oxygen exposure, and overtime, oxygen exposure can cause the inserts to degrade.

The recall affects the following knee and ankle replacement systems:

- » Opetrak
- » Opetrak Logic
- » Truliant
- » Vantage

APPROXIMATELY 147,732 DEVICES HAVE BEEN IMPLANTED IN PATIENTS SINCE 2004.

Toxic Baby Formulas

Premature babies who were fed Similac or Enfamil formulas in the neonatal intensive care units (NICU) are at an increased risk for developing necrotizing enterocolitis (NEC), a life-threatening gastrointestinal disorder. A recent scientific study revealed a link between these manufacturers' cow-milk baby formulas and NEC. NEC can cause inflammation of the intestinal lining, which can lead to infections and possibly death. The manufacturers of these formulas have failed to disclose the risks of NEC to medical providers and parents, and as a result, lawsuits against the manufacturers are mounting. If you or someone you know has been affected by these formulas, contact one of our attorneys today. You're entitled to compensation and we're here to fight for you to get what you deserve.
