Recertified as Workers'
Compensation Law
Specialist

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania – Adam N. Crosier of Marzzacco Niven & Associates in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, has been recertified as a specialist in the practice of workers’ compensation law by the Pennsylvania Bar Association Workers’ Compensation Law Section.

Recertification was granted as more than 50% of Attorney Crosier’s legal practice is in the specialty field of workers’ compensation; he has practiced in the field for more than ten years; and he actively participates in Mandatory Continuing Legal Education in workers’ compensation related fields. Crosier was first certified in 2015 after passing the certification examination that focuses on workers’ compensation law, rules and leading case law.

Firm Owner, Attorney Chris Marzzacco applauded Crosier’s recent achievement,

“The injured workers Adam represents at the firm continuously praise him for the skill, expertise and compassion he displays while fighting to protect their rights. Adam is a top-notch workers’ compensation specialist and he certainly deserved recertification.”

Attorney Crosier, Jesse Rhodeside and Rebecca Bailey handle all types of workers’ compensation claims and matters for the firm throughout the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Crosier will be permitted to continue to use the following language when communicating his certification to clients and to the public: “Certified as a specialist in the practice of workers’ compensation law by the Pennsylvania Bar Association’s Section on Workers’ Compensation Law as authorized by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.”
